as we can see from the power spectrum of each param, there is convergence since for each there is no indication that the spectrum is leveling off. Brute forcing the problem by using 10 000 steps would probably result in convergence.